When the planet was destroyed, the rest of the universe had no idea. All they knew was that the meteor was a heavy source of gold, and their species had never seen anything like it before. These are the fire golems. Armed with swords, axes, gauntlets, and any other noxious item you can think of, the golem roams the planet in search of gold. Every time a meteor goes off, an explosion of dangerous radiation is unleashed into the atmosphere. This radiation affects the golems, which begin to emit strange, glowing chunks of metal from their hands. The substance is pure metal, and provides the golems with the power to wield their weapons of chaos and turn them into the darkest of weapons. Atomic 79 is made in the Unreal Editor, and features completely new shader work and lighting systems. There is a list that nobody understands in this small, suburbian town. Every item on that list can make a different ending. You can search for items through the whole town, and you can go backwards or forwards. This helps to make the puzzle a bit more exciting. The game has an endless amount of endings that you can find. It is up to you to uncover and solve the mystery of Hidegpuszta. Notes --------------------------------- Note: --------------------------------- File size: 1.3 GB, may be larger depending on your internet connection. It is playable with any PC. I recommend to have Windows 7, Windows 8 or Windows 10. You may upgrade your PC to Windows 10 for free. Thanks to ChaosForge and Epic Games for the Unreal Engine license. Thanks to Blood Seams for the idea for the gameplay. Thanks to Unsteroid for the sound effects. Thanks to most of the users on Reddit, Steam & other websites for the support, cheers! Trial for multiplayer for Windows is here. Thanks to @Trent Walker & c9d1549cdd

Perception is the main gameplay characteristic: you need to seek items to satisfy the requirements, then place them into your laboratory.As a developer of practical and not tedious games, we are confident that your perception will never get tired. So come, let's play Wizard's Duty now and see whether you will be able to win! ===================================================== A dynamic game of "perception". A wizard of the court. A duffle bag of items necessary for a quick and smooth transition from the basic laboratory. The experimental laboratory is a room with a mirror. Looking into the mirror can reveal the "temple", where the potions are. The fairy and the mirror are your power sources. This is a simple control mechanism, with which the game is played. The fairy has just started. Use the fairy's power in order to bring luck, then drop it into the temple of the mirror. When you can make your potion within the limit, place it into the laboratory, taking into account the result - 0= disaster, 1= simple failure, 2= total success. A box of reagents, an iodine box and a tablet with a label "The most stable over two years". The stable iodine produces a more tasteless "micellar poison". The laboratory itself has a name - "Nuclear". Take the green "I" icon in the left corner of the box, then take it in the laboratory. The laboratory requires energy and you cannot take it from the mirrors. Recharge it by placing the so-called "dark ion". As you can see, the number on the lab increases. Each day, the limit increases: 30, 40, 50, etc. Only the "Nuclear" device helps you to make the potion, because it supplies energy and nothing else. The Magician's Tower has a "notch" that will help you to place equipment. However, it is necessary to buy this equipment first. In order to place the equipment, open the drawers. Pick up the white icon and drop it into the drawers. If you lose your energy, you will not be able to see the notches in the tower. Do not worry, just make potions and you will soon have enough energy again. On the right side of the tower, there is a "window" with a magnifying glass in the corner. It helps to scan the equipment
